

WAYS FOR EMPLOYERS TO ENGAGE WITH LiNC IT

LiNC-IT is a collaborative which supports autistic individuals in North Carolina in seeking early career employment opportunities. LiNC-IT also supports businesses in increasing the accessibility of their workplaces.

Start a neurodiversity internship or hiring initiative at your company.

Hire a LiNC-IT participant; this could be for an internship or as a direct hire. LiNC-IT supports the business through this process, as the participants have job coaches to support them and their managers.

Connect LiNC-IT to the human resources department at your company to discuss making the application process more accessible to people with autism.

Partner with LiNC-IT to offer a career exploration day or week for autistic high school students.

Complete the three-hour, self-paced, virtual training for managers about supporting autistic employees from the UNC TEACCH Autism Center.

Watch a forty-minute webinar about Universal Design from the NC Autism & Higher Education Collaborative. The points are also relevant for workplaces.
